CHEA Recognition Information

History: Recognized by CHEA in January 2001

Most Recent Recognition Review

Date: CHEA Board of Directors Meeting, January 24, 2011

Decision: Recognition for up to 10 years, approval of a change in the CHEA-recognized scope, and a report in one year

The CHEA Committee on Recognition and the Board of Directors reviewed the American Council for Construction Education (ACCE) for recognition. The review was based on the six CHEA recognition standards that require an accrediting organization to show that its accreditation process advances academic quality, demonstrates accountability, encourages self-scrutiny and planning, employs fair and appropriate procedures, demonstrates ongoing review of practice, and that it possesses sufficient resources to carry out its accreditation processes (2006 CHEA Recognition Policy and Procedures, Paragraphs 12A-12F, pp. 5-8.)

ACCE demonstrated that it meets these standards and that its accreditation process is consistent with the quality, improvement and accountability expectations that CHEA has established.

Additional Determination: ACCE is required to provide a report on the implementation of accreditation standards or policies that call for institutions or programs routinely to provide reliable information to the public on their performance, including student achievement as determined by the institution or program (Paragraph 12(B), 2006 CHEA Recognition Policies and Procedures).

The CHEA recognition policy requires that an accrediting organization undergo a recognition review least every 10 years and submit two interim reports.
